

THE UNIVERSAL HOUSE OF JUSTICE

1987-04-21

1 Ridván 1987

2 dearly loved friends,

The launching of the Six year plan at Ridván 1986 coincided with the opening of a new epoch—the fourth—in the organic unfoldment of the 3 formative Age of our faith. The Administrative institutions of this growing 4 cause of god had already begun to show signs of an increasing maturity, 5 while at the same time emerging from the protective obscurity of their early 6 days into the larger arena of public notice. These twin processes were signal-7 ized by a development of far-reaching consequence to the internal life of 8 the bahá'í community and by an outward activity of a magnitude unprec-9 edented in its entire history.

10 The former was a devolution of responsibility whereby all national com-11 munities, through their National Spiritual Assemblies, in consultation with counselors, local Spiritual Assemblies and the generality of believers, were 12 requested to formulate, for the first time, their own objectives for achievement 13 during the new plan. This expectation of maturity challenging the national 14 communities was matched by their formulation of national plans submitted 15 to the world center for coordination into the world-embracing Six year plan.
16 The latter was a united uprising of the entire bahá'í world community to 17 distribute the statement, The Promise of World Peace, issued in october 1985, 18 to the peoples of the world. heads of State, large numbers of the members 19 of national governments, diplomats, teachers, trade unionists, leaders of 20 religion, eminent members of the judiciary, the police, legal, medical and 21 other professions, members of local authorities, clubs and associations, and thousands of individuals have been presented with the statement. it is esti-22 mated that more than a million copies, in some seventy languages, have so 23 far been distributed. These two activities alone have heavily reinforced the 24 growing strength and maturity of the bahá'í world community and given it 25 a more clearly defined and readily recognizable public image.

26 other factors have contributed greatly to the rapid entrance of the faith 27 onto the world stage. indeed it appears that every activity of the widespread

Army of life is now observed or commented upon by some section of the 28 public, from the general Assembly of the united Nations to small and even 29 remote local communities..

22 1

22 2

22 3

22 4

23 m e S S a g e S f r o m T h e u n i v e r S a l h o u S e o f j u S T i c e

24 The steadfastness of the sorely tried persian believers continues to be the 25 mainspring of this worldwide attention increasingly being focused upon the 26 faith. while the brutal executions of heroic martyrs are now less frequent, 27 the harassment and deprivations, vilification and plundering of the long-28 persecuted community continue—more than 200 are still in prison—giv-ing the representatives of the bahá'í international community at the united 29 Nations firm grounds for strong and persistent appeals, which have aroused the concern of the general Assembly itself, and resulted in representations

30 to the iranian government on behalf of the defenseless bahá'ís by the commission on human rights, and by many powerful nations including the 31 various governments constituting the e uropean community.

32 All this has kept our beloved faith under international observation, an 33 interest increased not only by the circulation of the peace Statement but 34 also by the rapidly expanding activities in the field of economic and social development, ranging from the inauguration and operation of radio sta-tions—of which there are seven now broadcasting—to schools, literacy programs, agricultural assistance and a host of small but valuable undertak-

35 ings at village level in many parts of the world.

National bahá'í communities have organized and successfully conducted

36 interreligious conferences, peace seminars, symposiums on racism and other

37 subjects on which we have a specific contribution to make, often achieving 38 widespread publicity and the interest of highly placed leaders of society.
39 bahá'í youth, inspired and uplifted by the vision and idealism of "the new race of men"

40 22-1 have, through their many gatherings, attracted large num-41 bers of their compeers and galvanized their own members to direct their 42 lives towards service in the many fields in which a rich harvest awaits the 43 dedicated bahá'í worker.

Added to this rapidly burgeoning association of our fellowmen with 44 bahá'í activities, has been one outstanding magnificent achievement, the 45 completion and dedication of the wondrous bahá'í Temple in New delhi, 46 which received, within the first thirty days of its dedication to the worship of god, more than 120,000 visitors. This symbol of purity, proclaiming the oneness of god and his messengers in that land of myriad diverse 47 religious beliefs, befittingly marks the power and grandeur with which these portentous days in the life of god's holy cause have been endowed.

48 22-1. Adj, p. 16.22.5

22 6

22 7

22 8

23 1986-1992 • The Six Year Plan

24 5The stage is set for universal, rapid and massive growth of the cause of 25 god. The immediate and basic challenge is pursuit of the goals of the Six 26 year plan, the preliminary stages of which have already been initiated. The 27 all-important teaching work must be imaginatively, persistently and sacrifi-28 cially continued, ensuring the enrollment of ever larger numbers who will provide the energy, the resources and spiritual force to enable the beloved 29 cause to worthily play its part in the redemption of mankind. To reinforce 30 this process the international goals of the plan have been adopted, calling 31 for the undertaking of many hundreds of interassembly assistance projects, the reformation of the National Spiritual Assembly of zaire at riðvân 1987 32 and the establishment, in the course of the plan, of new National Spiritual

33 Assemblies, of which those of Angola, guinea, guinea-b issau and macau 34 have already been approved. during the first year of the Six year plan 338 pio-35 neers, guided by the needs set forth in previous plans, have already arisen and settled in 119 countries. A new appeal is now being prepared, details of which will be announced shortly. The promotion and facilitation of service projects for bahá'í youth in the emergent countries of the world are now called for.

36 National Spiritual Assemblies are asked to arrange, in consultation with each other and with the assistance of the continental boards of counselors, the 37 best means of ensuring the effective service of those who respond.
38 preparations for the holy year 1992, when the 100th Anniversary of the 39 Ascension of the blessed beauty and the inception of the covenant will 40 be commemorated, have already begun. it is fitting, then, that the cov-41 enant of bahá'u'lláh, which links the past and the future with the progres-42 sive stages towards the fulfillment of god's ancient promise, should be the 43 major theme of the Six year plan. concentration on this theme will enable 44 us all to obtain a deeper appreciation of the meaning and purpose of his 45 revelation—"A revelation," in the words of the guardian, "hailed as the 46 promise and crowning glory of past ages and centuries, as the consumma-tion of all the dispensations within the Adamic cycle, inaugurating an era 47 of at least a thousand years' duration, and a cycle destined to last no less than five thousand centuries, signaling the end of the prophetic era and 48 the beginning of the era of fulfillment, unsurpassed alike in the duration 49 of its Author's ministry and the fecundity and splendor of his mission.

..."

50 22-2 The questions that such concentrated study should answer will un-51 22-2. gpb, p. 100.22.9

22 10

23 m e S a g e S f r o m T h e u n i v e r S a l h o u S e o f j u S T i c e

24 6doubtedly include the meaning of the bahá'í covenant, its origin and what 25 should be our attitude towards it.

ever present in our contemplation of these profound questions is the 26 magnetic figure of 'Abdu'l-b ahá, the center of the covenant, the mystery 27 of god, the perfect exemplar, whose unerring interpretation of the holy

28 Texts and luminous examples of their application to personal conduct shed 29 light on a way of life we must strive diligently to follow. during the course 30 of the Six year plan the 75th anniversary of his visit to the west will be 31 observed with befitting celebrations and proclamation activities. Simultane-32 ously, there will be observed the 50th anniversary of the first Seven year 33 plan in the Americas, launched in 1937 at the instigation of Shoghi effendi, 34 and which, in setting in motion the systematic execution of ‘Abdu’l-b ahá’s 35 grand design for the spiritual conquest of the planet, marked the opening 36 of the first epoch of the d ivine p lan.

great and wonderful tasks challenge us as never before. They demand

37 equally great and wonderful sacrifice, dedication and single-minded devo-38 tion from every one of us. At present, the bahá’í international fund is ut-39 terly inadequate to support the tremendous expansion now required in all the multitudinous activities of the bahá’í world community. The record of 40 the Seven year plan, just completed, stands witness to our ability to meet 41 the growing demands of the cause. The heroism of the beloved friends in 42 iran, the eager response of 3,694 dedicated pioneers to the call raised for 43 this essential service, the unceasing activity of teachers, administrators, local communities and individual believers throughout the entire organism of the 44 embryonic world order, have endowed this growing Army of life with new 45 strengths and capacities. As we stride forward into the future we may be 46 fully assured of his ever present bounty and the final victory of our efforts 47 to establish h is kingdom in this troubled world.
48 with loving b ahá’í greetings,

22 12

23 1986–1992 • T h e S i x Y e a r P l a n

723

Negotiations with the Government of Israel for Development of the Bahá’í World Center

[signed: The Universal House of Justice]