

THE UNIVERSAL HOUSE OF JUSTICE

1987-04-30

To the bahá'ís of the world

1 dearly loved friends,

2 This rixván, after decades of unabated effort involving prolonged,

3 delicate negotiations, the government of the State of israel and the bahá'í world center signed an international agreement whose implications—

4 spiritual, historical, and practical—are inestimable for the rapidly evolving 5 world order of bahá'u'lláh.

Approved by unanimous vote of the cabinet of the National unity government, the Agreement states as reasons for the government's con-

6 currence in it the “friendly relations between the bahá'í world community

7 and the State of israel” and the “desire of the government of israel to give

8 effect to this relationship, and to its recognition of the special status of 9 the bahá'í world center.” These friendly relations trace their foundation

10 to the inspired initiatives of ‘Abdu’l-bahá himself, particularly during the 11 period following the revolution of the young Turks in 1908 when a general 12 amnesty was effected for religious and political prisoners held under the old regime.

The prestige acquired by the faith through the dynamic force of the 13 master's unique spirit was demonstrated after his release from imprison-

14 ment in the actions he took to establish his residence in haifa at the foot

15 of mount carmel, to inter the sacred remains of the báb in the mausoleum

16 which had been erected by him on the spot designated by bahá'u'lláh him-

17 self, and to travel extensively in the west. Subsequent to these travels, it

18 was more conspicuously illustrated through the excellent relations he forged

19 with high and low alike, the social impact of his liberal ministrations to the 20 needs of the people in the holy land, and the conferring of a knighthood 21 upon him by the british crown.

22 This legacy of prestige was evident in the recognition accorded Shoghi 23 effendi as head of the faith by the authorities of the british mandate.

24 The extent of the guardian's energetic exertions to achieve recognition of the independent status of the faith, whose permanent spiritual and 25 administrative centers are in the holy land, is beyond the scope of this 23.1

25 8letter and must, in due time, be afforded full treatment in the work of 26 future historians. let it suffice to reaffirm here that what he was able to accomplish during the years of the mandate, in securing custody of 27 bahá'í properties and in obtaining official protection of the holy places,

28 recognition of the bahá'í marriage certificate and of bahá'í holy days,

29 and relief from certain taxes, combined to reflect a status for the faith which was accepted by the new government when the State of israel was established in 1948. writing on Shoghi effendi's behalf to a National Spiritual Assembly on 30 may 1952, his secretary stated that "All the 30 bahá'í properties and imports are exempt from taxation and customs,

31 and the status of the faith as a religion, recognized." however, the letter 32 pointed out that "At present, we are planning to clarify our legal posi-tion with the government, and get it on a more concrete footing." it is 33 precisely in fulfilling the need for such clarification and more concrete footing that the instrument recently signed in jerusalem represents a dis-

34 tinctive stage in the relations of the bahá'í world center with the gov-

35 ernment of this country.

36 in a ceremony at the foreign ministry on 22 April 1987, the second day

37 of riḡván, the Agreement, comprising an exchange of letters, was signed 38 by mr. Shimon peres, vice-p remier and foreign minister, on behalf of the 39 government of israel, and mr. donald barrett, Secretary-g eneral of the 40 bahá'í international community, on behalf of the bahá'í world center, 41 in the presence of other high-ranking government officials and mr. ronald 42 bates, deputy Secretary-general of the bahá'í international community.

43 Among its contents are the following statements of recognition:

The government of israel recognizes the members of the bahá'í

44 faith as a recognized religious community in israel in accordance with

Article 2 of the palestine order in council, 1922–1947, and confirms 45 that the bahá'í world center is the world spiritual and administrative center of the bahá'í world community and that the universal house of justice in haifa is the head of the bahá'í faith and its Supreme 46 institution in accordance with its constitution.

The government of israel recognizes that the holiest places of the 47 bahá'í faith, in accordance with the bahá'í Sacred Scriptures, are lo-

T rustee of the bahá'í international community over the holy places

48 of the bahá'í faith in israel and over the bahá'í endowments in israel.23.4

25 9from such clearly stated recognition flow privileges and benefits befitting

26 the spiritual and administrative center of a world faith. These provisions

27 of the Agreement are defined in terms that are renewable or renegotiable at 28 certain intervals, lending a flexibility and extension to the Agreement that are among its salient features. The Agreement can thus be regarded as the culmination of a series of preliminary measures of official recognition vari-

29 ously granted by sundry governmental authorities over a span of decades, 30 now confirmed, amplified, extended, and defined in an instrument which places the operation of the bahá'í world center on a solid basis in its rela-

31 tions with the government of israel and in its other external relations. it

32 thus launches a new phase in the development of the administration of the faith at its w orld center.

of unusual importance—and fraught with implications for the future

33 dealings of the bahá'í community everywhere as the faith passes through the 34 stages of its evolution until its stature is fully acclaimed by the nations—is the nature of the final negotiations, which engaged our representatives in extensive consultations with highly placed officials, and from which emerged

35 the procedure for sealing the Agreement. for it is a singular fact that the 36 representative of a sovereign government, in the person of its vice-p remier 37 and foreign minister, and the representative of what was justifiably acknowl-38 edged as the “world center of a recognized international non-governmental organization” sat down together to sign an “i nternational Agreement,” the 39 first such occurrence in the history of the cause of bahá’u’lláh.

40 That this should have taken place in the holy land, to which only some 120 years ago the founder of that cause was banished as a prisoner, evokes in us feelings of wonderment and astonished joy. That the government

121 which was party to so unprecedented an act happens to be that of a people 122 who have only recently returned, after many centuries of exile, to their 123 homeland bespeaks a token of divine favor of incalculable spiritual and 124 historical importance for the j ewish people.

dear friends, the Status Agreement now achieved makes an indelible 125 mark on the formative Age of our faith, assuming a special place among the 126 swiftly accumulating evidences of the divine confirmations which have thus far distinguished the opening period of the fourth epoch of that Age. These accompanying signs of g od’s abounding grace clearly include:

– The conference of continental counselors at the world center at the close of which on 2 january 1986 was announced the opening of the fourth epoch.23.5

25 50– The establishment in jerusalem of an office of representation for the bahá’í international community to facilitate the relations of 26 the w orld center with the g overnment of i srael.

– The successful conclusion of the Seven year plan, unforgettable for the stature the cause of bahá'u'lláh attained betokening its emergence from obscurity—an emergence resulting largely from 27 the indescribable sacrifices of the beloved friends in i ran.

– The completion of the distribution of The Promise of World Peace to heads of state and the outstanding events associated with the 28 promulgation of its contents.

– The launching of the Six year plan which incorporated the feature of planning involving the consultation of continental counselors with National Spiritual Assemblies, and to a large extent, consultation at the grass roots of the national bahá'í communities, leading 29 to the choice of goals for their countries by these National Spiritual 30 Assemblies.

– The first visit of a head of government to the world center to 31 peace Statement.

– The participation of bahá'í publishers in an international book 32 fair in the capital of the p eople's r epublic of china.

33 – The dedication of the mother Temple of the indian sub-continent, an event which opened new opportunities for the faith to be pro-

34 claimed in the Soviet union, eastern bloc countries, and china, 35 and which has induced the visits of high-ranking officials from these and other countries to the Temple.

36 – The establishment in liberia of the first bahá'í radio station on the 37 continent of Africa.

– The adoption of the design created by mr. þusayn Amánat for 38 the complex of edifices remaining to be constructed on the Arc on mount carmel.

39 one practical and spiritually confirming effect of the signing of the Sta-

40 tus Agreement is that it brings us within reach of the realization of the beloved guardian's vision for the Arc on god's holy mountain. for with the

41 Agreement in hand formidable obstacles to the execution of the Arc project 42 have been removed. The conjunction of the completion of the architect's design and the favorable action of the government thus signals the ripe-

43 ness of the time to pursue the obligation acutely felt by the entire bahá'í 23.8b undertaking will, of course, be communicated to the friends in due course. in the meantime, we are happy to announce that the architect of the indian 29 Terraces to be situated below and above the Shrine of the báb; he has also 30 been appointed project manager to execute the design already adopted for
