

THE UNIVERSAL HOUSE OF JUSTICE

1992-11-19

At this auspicious time, when bahá'ís throughout the world are celebrating the day of the covenant of bahá'u'lláh, we hail the participants in the first National congress of the bahá'ís of bangladesh, who have gathered to pay tribute to the life-giving Teachings of our faith and to enhance their role in the service of their country and the promotion of the unity of mankind. The wonderful achievements of your community in recent years have demonstrated that the people of bangladesh are endowed with great spiritual capacity enabling them to recognize divine truth when it is presented to them. once enlisted under the banner of the faith of bahá'u'lláh, they become highly motivated and arise in the promotion of the word of god and the cause of peace in this world. This augurs well for the progress and future prosperity of that nation.

The bahá'í community of bangladesh has already established itself in the annals of the formative Age of our faith as a staunch pillar of devotion and selfless endeavor in the service of the cause, and this has been an inspiration to many. The freedom they enjoy in pursuing their beneficial activities is a credit to the farsightedness of the leaders of that country who are seeking to guide that nation into a brighter future.

one of the great challenges before the people of bangladesh, and the bahá'í community in particular, is to foster better understanding and amity between the various sectors of the population and to promote its social and economic development. The bahá'ís must show by their actions that the Teachings of bahá'u'lláh not only create harmony and convey deep spiritual insights, but they also offer practical solutions to many problems of this age and are able to effect the much needed spiritual transformation, beginning at the grassroots level and embracing all strata of society.

you may be assured that prayers will be offered at the Sacred Threshold for the success of this historic gathering, and that we will beseech bahá'u'lláh to grant success to the people of your country in their struggle for spiritual and material progress.

Message to the Second Bahá'í World Congress

23 November 1992144-1

To the followers of bahá'u'lláh attending the second bahá'í world congress dearly loved friends, with eager hopes and thankful hearts, we acclaim the convocation in

New York of the second bahá'í world congress on the occasion of the worldwide celebration of the centenary of the inauguration of the covenant of bahá'u'lláh. That so wide a diversity of the human race as you represent has assembled at this commemorative event is in itself history-making and is, indeed, an impressive demonstration of the potency and potential of the covenant as the instrument designed by the lord of the Age for the unification and pacification of the nations and peoples of the earth. we rejoice with exceeding gladness, for your coming together in such variegated array is an affirmation of the efficacy of this sacred legacy—a fresh assurance that, despite recurrent trials and turmoil, its world-redeeming, worldrevolutionizing purpose will ultimately be entirely realized.

our emotions are deeply stirred as we reflect on the remarkable circumstances which heralded the birth of bahá'u'lláh's covenant. melancholy and hopeful images alternately flash upon our mental screen: the tragic May Night a century ago of the passing of bahá'u'lláh, the Supreme manifestation of God; the soul-crushing scenes of the grief-stricken many who converged on Bahjí to pay their respects to his memory; the atmosphere of abject desolation caused by the loss of one who had been father and incomparable friend to all. but the setting of the Sun of Bahá gave rise to the appearance of the orb of the covenant. Thus the majestic figure of 'Abdu'l-Bahá came to impress itself indelibly upon the consciousness of the faithful, consoling their spirits and brightening their outlook, because in bahá'u'lláh's book of the covenant, the Kitáb-i-'Ahd, this beloved Son was appointed his Successor and the center of the covenant. Thus was set in motion on the morrow of bahá'u'lláh's ascension the divine process that will, during the course of the bahá'í dispensation, guarantee the fulfillment of the promise made in the Kitáb-i-Asmá. This message was delivered via satellite during final day of the second bahá'í world congress, held in New York City, 23–26 November 1992.^{144.1}

Statement of his principal purpose for humankind, namely, the realization of its oneness.

The initial momentum of this process was to gather particular force in the West as the acts of the beloved Master dramatically revealed. It was during his epic journey to North America that 'Abdu'l-Bahá, recently released from imprisonment, impressed upon the early occidental believers the pivotal importance of the new covenant; and it was in New York City that he chose to disclose to his disciples the special characteristics of that covenant and his true station as its appointed center. The occasion won for this leading city of the Western Hemisphere the surname, City of the Covenant. Where else, then, but this signally blessed metropolis could serve as the fitting venue for the commemoration which has so marvelously brought you together?

This congress is the major occasion during the Holy Year for the evocation of a memory which enables us all to appreciate how, through the dynamic person and peerless office of the center of the covenant, the will of both the Abhá Beauty and his Herald has been translated into viable means for actualizing the unity of mankind and building a world civilization. Consider, for instance, how on the very night in May 1844 when he declared his prophetic mission, the Báb addressed a summons to the peoples of the West that they issue forth from their cities to teach the cause of God. Has that summons not thoroughly been fused with the world-embracing purpose of bahá'u'lláh, becoming a shining reality within the framework of the Administrative Order, the Child of the Covenant—an order which the Báb anticipated and extolled in his writings? You have come to New York to reflect on such triumphant realities with due solemnity and spiritual joy. How heartwarming and noteworthy that the proceedings of this momentous gathering will be enhanced by the presence of the three hands of the cause of god, tried and true upholders of the covenant chosen by Shoghi effendi under his authority as the guardian of the faith appointed in the will and Testament of ‘Abdu’l-b ahá! we can never forget that by their selfless adherence to duty during the period of their custodianship following the sudden passing of Shoghi effendi, the hands of the cause preserved the wholeness of the community of bahá, while at the same time guiding the members of that expanding community to the victorious conclusion of the guardian’s Ten year global plan. Nor can we cease to appreciate their continuing, tireless services in the propagation and protection of our glorious faith. we are particularly pleased that our representative to the congress is 144.3

06one of these high-ranking officers, the consort and helpmate of our beloved guardian who herself attained the presence of ‘Abdu’l-b ahá.

it was Shoghi effendi who called for the first world congress which jubilantly marked the one hundredth anniversary of bahá’u’lláh’s declaration of his divine mission. with admirable resourcefulness the hands of the cause planned and executed it. That unforgettable occasion in london some three decades ago, coming at the end of the Ten year crusade, affirmed for the bahá’ís themselves that the faith of bahá’u’lláh had truly emerged as a world religion with a world community. Now at this moment, throughout the bahá’í world, we are engaged in another centennial observance for the purpose not only of celebrating the unique history of the covenant, but also of proclaiming abroad its aims and unifying power. The second world congress now convened is the mainspring in the launching of worldwide commemorative activities which will promulgate the covenant as the axis of unity for all humankind and broadcast its qualities for reforming human society. moreover, through these activities and other extended measures, the community at all levels—local, national, continental and international—will exert immense effort to spread across the planet the Name of the world reformer, b ahá’u’lláh, that hearts may be attracted and minds illumined. but we speak of a proclamation which has more to do with deeds than words; and in this regard, we must, everywhere in our world community, attain a new awareness of the urgency of the times and of our sacred duties toward the promised one of All Ages. A special expectation is therefore invested in you who are attending this focal event in the city of the covenant.

for these four special days of commemoration, may you all strive as never before to appreciate more adequately the life-transforming character and unific spirit of the covenant, and to immediately demonstrate this heightened appreciation in the spiritual attitude you show among yourselves. may you do this with the resolve that what you practice towards each other during these few days will henceforth be sustained in your relations with all others elsewhere. Such active resolution will endow the second world congress with the radiant power to impress upon the public the incontrovertible fact that the bahá'í faith is a world religion worthy of its claims and, hence, of public recognition.

in a Tablet to the bahá'ís in New York, 'Abdu'l-bahá expressed a hope which it is propitious to recall on this opportune occasion: "i eagerly anticipate the day," he wrote, "when New York will become a blessed spot from which the call to steadfastness in the covenant and Testament of God will 144.6

07go forth to every part of the world. . . ." Surely, through the auspicious circumstances afforded by this congress, you will attempt thus to gratify his Spirit in the Abhá realm, so that from his retreats on high you may receive the benediction of his abiding good pleasure and strengthening grace.

in our supplications at his blessed Shrine we shall entreat him graciously to secure and in abundance vouchsafe to the entire community of his dedicated lovers the favors and confirmations of the Lord of the Covenant.
